

A RETURN TO BRAZIL

South and Central America has been one of the most dynamic regions in the hollow glassmaking sector in recent years. There has been a host of new glassmaking facilities that have opened recently and there has been a renewed interest in the region thanks to its favourable economic and political conditions. This, coupled with an increased disposable income among the population's consumers, has seen a surge of confidence in glass packaging.

The Glassman Conference will address the latest trends in glassmaking with high-level speakers, in addition to the Future Glass Forum which focuses on applying Industry 4.0 to the Glass Industry - both creating a compelling reason for the highest level of decision makers within the industry to attend.

In 2017, there were almost 1,000 attendees from over 25 countries, including representatives from Cattorini, Rigolleau, O-I, Verallia, Durax, Heinz-Glas, Compañia Perunana de Vidro, Cristal Chile and Cristal Toro.

In short, there has never been a better time to expand your business within this region and we are delighted to be taking Glassman to Sao Paulo in 2019. Don't miss out, reserve your exhibition stand now.

AN EVENT OF REAL INTEREST:

“Glassman South America was really interesting, because it is the place that allows you to be updated on the different services and suppliers that are available for the glass industry.”

Rigolleau
